A new reading series for the intermediate French as a second language classroom. Eight modules, each one pertaining to a different natural disaster.

This Aquila series features heart-stopping adventure stories set in the midst of colossal natural disasters. Students are captivated by the adventures while learning both French and the science and mechanisms behind hurricanes, volcanoes, tornadoes, tidal waves, avalanches and meteorites.

For the French teacher, these books are efficient pedagogical tools featuring built-in language activities and a lexicon in each book. Each title contains a mind-blowing adventure story followed by a section of true, momentous facts pertaining to the particular natural disaster covered in the story.

Each of the eight modules contains:

- One adventure story, set in the context of a natural disaster
- One section containing basic scientific explanations, facts and data
- A variety of activities
- A lexicon

AVAILABLE IN TWO FORMATS:

- Eight separate books
- Two four-module volumes (Tome I & Tome II)

L'ASTÉROÏDE XF-14

An asteroid the size of Toronto is headed straight for Earth at 60,000 km/hr. It's 48 hours before impact. What are we going to do?

L'OURAGAN ANNA

Two teenagers plunge into a terrifying world of flying trees, cars and houses to rescue Lucie's grandparents from a deadly hurricane. Will they survive this action-packed white-knuckle adventure?

ÉTOILES FILANTES

Chantal thinks she's going to Steve's party as his date while Steve thinks she's coming to help serve sandwiches. This hilarious comedy is set against the backdrop of Perseid meteor showers. Find out if wishes do come true when shooting stars cross the sky.

LE MONT ST.HELENS EXPLOSE

Our protagonists are sitting right on Mt. St. Helen's on the morning of May 18, 1980 when half the mountain is blown into the sky! Will they survive the race down the mountain, chased by toxic gases, mudslides and falling rocks?

AVALANCHE DANS LES ROCHEUSES

On the Kokanee glacier, in British Columbia, a group of daredevil skiers ignore avalanche warnings and head for the danger zone. Will they survive this cliff-hanger?

TSUNAMI À SISSANO

The theme park is almost built on the island of Sissano. Just then, a monster tidal wave hurtles a ten story tall wall of water onto the island. Will one young man's spirit triumph over the ruthless power of nature?

TORNADO AU TEXAS

A lethal magnitude 5 tornado heads straight for the village of Walto. The climactic scene takes place right in the eye of the tornado! Will the protagonists survive this teeth-gnashing adventure? Will the village be saved?

L'ÉRUPTION DU VÉSUVÉ

Relive the terror and the courage which marked the first ever volcanic eruption recorded by eyewitnesses in 79 AD. Roman admiral Plin races his boat straight into an inferno of falling lava rocks, toxic gases and pumice to save the village of Stabia. Will he make it?
